MAINTAIN OVERSIGHT OF YOUR CLIENTS' ASSETS.

Donors often request that their contributions be managed by their own financial advisors. To accommodate these requests, The Pittsburgh Foundation empowers qualified financial advisors who have been approved by our Investment Committee to maintain investment advisory capacity over their clients' assets. The process of becoming a Third Party Manager includes:

- Review our Investment Policy and complete the Due Diligence Questionnaire.
- We review and present the Questionnaire to Investment Committee for approval.
- Official approval is contingent upon your client establishing a fund with The Pittsburgh Foundation.
- Once fund is established, we can help you develop joint marketing materials.

The Foundation regularly organizes Continuing Learning Events that help advisors gain knowledge and stay ahead of trends.

ADVANCE YOUR CREDENTIALS WITH A CAP® DESIGNATION.

The Pittsburgh Foundation partners with the American College of Financial Services in Philadelphia to offer group study opportunities and peer support in earning the Chartered Advisor in Philanthropy® designation. These graduate level courses will:

- Provide you with the knowledge and skills needed to help clients achieve their highest aspirations.
- Give you insight into the process of philanthropic planning including taxes, tools and techniques.
- Enable you to integrate gift planning with estate planning, business succession planning and investment advisory services.
- Position you as a confidante whom your clients can turn to for charitable giving expertise.
- Qualify you for continuing education credits.
- May be applied toward a master of science in Financial Services degree.
(Space is limited to 20 participants per class.)
